

CONCORD BOY SHOT BY FATHER

Older Man Recently Sentenced For Cruelty to Family Flees to Woods

Concord, N. H., Oct. 4.—Pasquale Morano, aged 55, shot his son, Antonio Morano, 18 years old, shortly before 6 tonight and the young man is in a serious condition at the Margaret Pillsbury Hospital. The father had not been arrested at a late hour tonight.

Three months ago Morano was before the court for cruelty to his family, especially to a 10-year-old daughter, on whose testimony he was sent to the House of Correction for 90 days. In the family there are three children, including a brother two years older than Tony, and the little sister. The mother died two years ago.

Morano's sentence expired a week ago and he returned to his home at 18 Forest st. Upon his arrival Tony gave notice that he could no longer live with him and that one or the other would have to leave. The father said he had no place to go, and Tony told him he could have 15 days in which to move out or he would move. The father decided it was better to leave himself. Tonight one week of the 15 days had expired, Tony was tapping shoes in the kitchen, when his father told him he might as well go. He said "goodbye," and with the word turned on Tony with a revolver firing one shot which struck the boy in the face.

Tony arose and jumped through a window to escape. His father ran out of the house, and fired four more shots at the boy. Two of them lodged in Tony's back, and while neither is apparently at a vital point, the physicians, unable to find them, are fearful of fatal results.

The shot in the face knocked out several teeth and it was impossible to find where this bullet went in, the young man claiming that he dropped it from his mouth with the shattered teeth.

The older Morano fled to a patch of woods near his home and neighbors say they heard a revolver shot soon after, indicating that the would-be murderer attempted suicide. A detail of police were sent and with the help of volunteers the woods are being searched and guarded. It is possible the man crossed from the tract which he first entered into a much larger one, in which case, it is unlikely that he will be found tonight.

In a row a year ago Morano and his two assailants were badly cut and stabbed and the men served heavy jail sentences. His two boys are respectable, hard-working chaps and had made up their minds to have a home without the interference of the father for themselves and young sister, with the tragedy as the outcome.

ANNUAL OUTING AT WENTWORTH FARM

Employees of Portsmouth
Brewing Company Make
Merry

Every workman connected with the Portsmouth Brewing Company is at the Wentworth farm today. It is the annual complimentary outing by the company, and its safe to say that there will be no dead ones in the party. A fine list of sports for prizes will be run off during the day and the very best thing in a shore dinner was served at noon.

FINAL GAMES TODAY.

Close of Major League Season in East
This Afternoon.

New York, Oct. 4.—The closing of the major league baseball season in the East tomorrow will find the two championship teams in the pink of physical condition for the world series, with the exception of two minor injuries which have placed some of the Boston enthusiasts on the anxious seat.

Fear that Captain Doyle of the New York Giants might not be able to play at his best, because of an ankle which was slightly spiked yesterday, is groundless. Doyle played throughout the game today in usual form. The possibility of either Gardner or Carrigan of Boston being kept out of the early games of the world series has had a slight effect in betting odds here, evening up the wagers where Boston had been a slight favorite, but New York enthusiasts expect to see both men in the opener, though perhaps not at their best, if the injuries to their hands are not wholly mended.

The last game of the Giants' season at old Washington park in Brooklyn tomorrow will incidentally mark the passage of that place as a scene of the big league baseball game. The Brooklyn club opens next year on Ebbetts field, where a large, modern stadium is being built.

LAWRENCE IS FLAG BEDECKED

Haywood Hints at Exodus of Mill Operatives and Mayor Scanlon Offers To Provide a Train

Lawrence, Oct. 4.—This city blossomed out in the national colors this morning in astonishing fashion, following the mass meeting of its citizens last night, and by the mayor's request. Every public building, most of the business buildings and a great many private dwellings have flags flying. Every city employee is wearing a miniature flag on his coat lapel, and men, women and children have been rushing the stores for these little tokens all day.

Tonight you cannot buy an American flag in Lawrence. One store sold 12,000 today, another sold 40 gross, and many more could have been disposed of.

Small flags are carried on the engines of automobiles or stuck in horses' bridles and store windows are decorated with flags.

Looking along Essex street one could easily believe it a gala day in the city.

W. D. Haywood and Fred W. Heslow advised the members of the I. W. W. to wear the flags. "We are not opposed to the flag," said Haywood. "But we are opposed to the flag being used as a shield to tyranny."

So far only two disturbances have been reported as a result of the flag wearing, but any man who does not wear one meets comment and question at every step on the street, though the movement is not yet 24 hours old.

The committee on parade tonight set the starting time at 9 a. m. on Columbus day, Saturday, Oct. 12. All organizations in the city are invited to march, but the committee has made a rule that no insignia of any kind shall be worn.

"Living flags," figure marching and organized displays of all sorts are planned. No automobiles or horse-drawn vehicles will parade. The committee expects 30,000 to turn out.

Haywood announced this morning that a detailed investigation is being made by the I. W. W. to ascertain where permanent employment can be obtained for large numbers of men, with the idea of shipping thousands of people out of Lawrence for good.

When this was told to Mayor Scanlon he replied: "Tell them to get out as soon as the Lord will let them, and the city will furnish a special train to help them get out."

More of the operatives who were refused work on Monday got it today, and it is believed that fewer than 1000 are now out of work.

A number of special policemen, employed by the mills, were sworn in today. They were put into the factories to guard against possible disorder. It cannot be denied that the situation in Lawrence is ticklish. All sorts of propositions which mean disorder are freely discussed, most of them variations on the theme that "Lawrence is aroused."

VETERANS HAVE AN EARLY RISER

Mac's Comrades are Wondering What is His Next Stunt

A proprietor of one of the Vaughan street lodging houses says he has a boarder which he will be obliged to tie in bed at night or send for some of his comrades of the Franklin Pierce association to act as guards while Mac gets his night's snooze. This precaution is liable to come about from the fact this boarder recently left his bed in his sleep, dressed himself and went out to the washstand at 2 a. m. He was much surprised man when he woke at that hour and found himself sitting on a chopping block, puffing away at a cigarette. His comrades of the red shirt brigade are wondering what the next trip will be.

TOPEDO DESTROYER IN COLLISION WITH A BARGE

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 4.—The new torpedo boat destroyer Beale, while proceeding down the Delaware River last night from this port for Newport, R. I., was in collision with a barge and tore a large hole in her bow.

The collision occurred near New Castle, Del., about 30 miles below this city. The hole torn in the ship measured about 20 feet by 10 feet. The Beale was in command of Lieut. Parker and had a crew of 82 officers and men, most of whom were asleep, but the shock of the collision awoke all on board. None of the crew was injured.

As quickly as possible the watertight compartments were closed and the Government tug Semaset was summoned and the Beale was towed back to the navy yard here, arriving today. The destroyer was placed in dry dock for examination.

Besides the great hole in her bow, the Beale's forward engine was damaged.

The destroyer is said to have been making 15 knots an hour when the collision occurred. Lieut. Parker was in his cabin at the time, and it is declared the navigator on the bridge could not see the barge. It was said at the Navy Yard today that the barge did not show any lights.

The Beale was only recently turned over to the Government. She had been built in this city. On her official trial trip she made a speed of 23 1/4 miles an hour.

The destroyer was to have taken part in maneuvers at Newport and was then to have proceeded to New York for the Naval review.

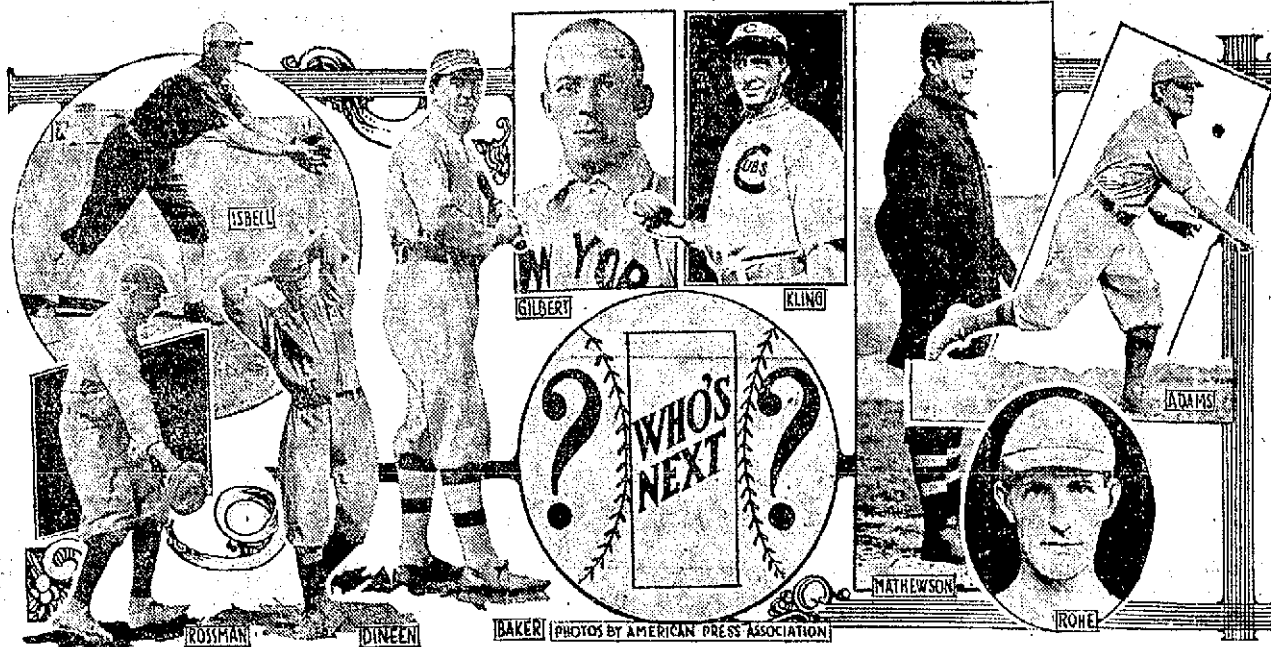

EXETER LETTER

The enrollment of the students at Phillips-Eveler academy has been made up and it shows that the total number is 522, which is several more than last year. They are divided as follows: Senior 143; upper middle, 150; lower middle, 156; and Juniors 65. There are but few states in the union which are not represented and several foreign countries send students. The countries represented are: Honolulu, which sends two students; Mexico, four; Cuba, two; San Domingo and South America.

There is an unusually large number of boys at the New Hampshire school from Texas and California, the number from the Lone Star state being larger this year, and the Golden state has a representation of ten also. There is a movement in Texas to form an Exeter club and this source, undoubtedly backed by many alumni of the universities of that state influences many of the boys to come to Exeter, California also has a large alumni membership which is apparently doing good work on the Pacific coast. Many of the far western states are also well represented there being a large representation from beyond the Rockies.

Exeter this year has twelve students in the academy, they being in Some Heroes Of Former World's Series--Who Will Take The Center Of The Stage And Become Hero Of The 1912 Games?

New York, Oct. 5.—Who is going to be the hero of the 1912 world's series between the New York Giants and the Boston Americans? Every world's series has developed a hero. In the first series played between the Boston and Pittsburgh teams in 1903 the hero was Bill Dineen. The latter's good work in the pitching box practically won the series for the Boston. In 1905, when Philadelphia met New York, Christy Mathewson's pitching heroics in 1907. In 1908 Johnny Kling of the Chicago Nationals was the big show. In 1909 Babe Adams' pitching won the title for the Pittsburgh Nationals. Jack Coombs of the Athletics was the star of the 1910 games. Last year Baker of the Athletics was the big noise. His two home runs practically won the championship for his team. Who will be he next to occupy a place in baseball's hall of fame?

A large delegation from the Gilman grange visited the Ocean Side grange at Hampton last evening at the invitation of the latter. The trip was made by electric, the party going on the 7 o'clock and returning later in the evening. An attractive program was arranged by the Ocean Side grange.

The police have been asked to locate William P. Carroll, who is wanted by the police department of Lynn, Mass., for larceny and forgery of $1700. He was formerly a real estate broker in that city and Aug. 26 he stole $1000 from a widow by means of a "fake" real estate deal. The description is age 34, height 5 feet 3 inches, weight 150, dark complexion, smooth face, blue eyes and when last seen wore a brown suit.

The Eagle steamer company will hold a concert and ball at the town hall on the evening of Oct. 23 with music by the Columbian orchestra of Lawrence, Mass.

The Rev. Albert P. Fitch of the Andover Theological seminary of Cambridge, Mass., will be the preacher at the academy Sunday morning.

The school is now the largest in its history, all of the dormitories being filled and many are boarding in private families. Last year the total number enrolled when the list was made up was 514, and of this number, there was forty-eight from New Hampshire and the local number was nineteen. As last year, the representatives of the southern states is

A dance was conducted in the town hall last evening by the Tuck high school athletic council. The floor manager was William L. Rowe, assistant and instructor in chemistry, and the aids, William B. Sleeper, Harry L. Millbury, manager of the football eleven, and Fred A. Moore.

RECOVERED BICYCLE STOLEN WEDNESDAY

Mr. E. N. McNabb, who had his bicycle stolen from him on Wednesday while rigging the wire for the Republican campaign banner, recovered it on Friday at Kennebunk.

On Wednesday afternoon the police found that a man riding a nickel-plated wheel had bent his toll over the Portsmouth bridge.

Nothing was heard of the man or wheel and on Friday afternoon Mr. McNabb took his motor cycle and started out on his own hook. He found where the thief had attempted to sell the wheel at York, and later traced it through York Beach to Ogunquit where he inquired about expressing the wheel to Biddeford. He remained in Ogunquit over night and then went to Kennebunk where he sold the wheel to a man named Larabee on Thursday morning for the sum of $6.00. Mr. McNabb traced the wheel to the garage kept by Mr. Larabee and as soon as he proved ownership he obtained the wheel and shipped it back to this city by express and returned himself over the road.

FELL OVERBOARD AND HAS NARROW ESCAPE

John King was arrested on Russell street Friday afternoon by Officers Shannon and Doherty and charged with being drunk.

John had a very narrow escape from being drowned in the river. He fell off the coal wharf and it was only by prompt work on the part of a man in a motor boat that he was pulled out.

Two other drunks who were fooling around the public landing went into the river, but they got out all right and the bath soother them up so that they disappeared.

The crews of the U. S. S. North Carolina and Washington will be augmented at New York by several hundred of the naval militia who will be attached to the cruisers during the review only.

COL. ROOSEVELT MAKES A SWEEPING DENIAL

Denies That He Ever Asked Anybody to Contribute to His Campaign.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—"I asked no man to contribute to the campaign fund when I was elected President of the United States, and I wish to reiterate that Mr. Bliss and Mr. Cortelyou both assured me that no promise had been made as a return for any contribution. Neither they nor anyone else having authority asked me to act or refrain from acting in any matter while I was President, because any contribution had been made or withheld. Gentlemen could I put it more sweepingly?"

In these words, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt summarized his testimony today at the close of the first part of the hearing before the Senate committee on the Standard Oil Company of 1904. John D. Archbold has testified that he made such a contribution to the late Cornelius N. Bliss; George R. Sheldon, treasurer of the committee in 1903 and this year also, has testified that Mr. Bliss's records showed such a contribution; George D. Cortelyou, chairman of the committee in 1904, has sworn that no such contribution was received, and Colonel Roosevelt has said that he gave repeated and express instructions to both Mr. Bliss and Mr. Cortelyou that if such a contribution were made it was to be immediately returned. Witnesses have testified that they knew of no record of such a contribution having been returned.

Colonel Roosevelt's testimony, testified with characteristic statements. "Senator Penrose should be driven from the Senate," he declared, "because of his acknowledged treachery with Standard Oil interests. Charles D. Hiles and Congressman Barthold should be forced to prove their statements that Mr. Roosevelt believed Mr. Bliss kept information of primary campaign funds this year any contributions from Mr. Cortelyou."

Colonel Roosevelt breakfasted with William Loebl, Jr., formerly his private secretary, and now collector of customs at New York, before going to the Senate Office Building where the hearings of the committee are held. Several hundred people were waiting, hoping to get into the little committee room, with its capacity for about one hundred. Seats had been reserved by Chairman Clapp for Sir George Reid, Australian high commissioner, and Lady Reid, who had been Colonel Roosevelt's hosts abroad, his hearing before the Clapp committee of the Senate investigating campaign funds. He continued when the committee resumed after luncheon.

The Colonel specifically denied that he ever asked for contributions to his 1904 campaign fund, or that he had known of any contribution by J. P. Morgan. To those unequivocal statements Colonel Roosevelt added again that he had ordered the return to the Standard Oil Company of any contribution it might have made in 1904; that he had been assured by George R. Cortelyou, "only yesterday" that he knew of no such contribution; and that he did not believe Cor-

BIG VICE RAIDS MADE IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—Various movements that have met with some success in attacking vice conditions here were given impetus yesterday when John E. W. Wayman, State Attorney, went before the Municipal Court with more than 200 warrants for the arrest of disorderly resort keepers and other violators of the law. Officers began service of the warrants at once.

Mr. Wayman declares that he means to banish every immoral character from his jurisdiction. The undertaking is said to be one of the most drastic tasks of his character ever undertaken in a metropolitan city. Several raids were made in the South Side segregated vice district, and a number of arrests were made. Eight other arrests were made yesterday by federal detectives working simultaneously with the local force. The eight arrested persons, a woman resort keeper and seven alleged white slaves, were put on a New York train last night in charge of detectives under George C. Craft, assistant superintendent of justice of New York city. The women will be taken before the Federal Grand Jury in New York, pursuant to an investigation into an alleged vice trust with headquarters in New York and Chicago.

A number of other arrests will be made today, it is said, by Federal officers. Systematic interchange of women between New York and Chicago is charged by the Federal investigators. One thousand arrests are expected to be made in the crusade.

THE CHILD LABOR LAW ENFORCEMENT

There seems to be a wrong impression on the part of some of the merchants about the child labor law which is responsible for many cases being found by the Truant officer. The law in brief is that no child under the age of 12 shall be employed at any time, anywhere, except on a farm or as a domestic. No child under fourteen years shall be employed during the school term, and this means from the time the schools open in September to the close in December, and from the beginning of the winter term until they close in June. No child under sixteen years shall be employed while the schools are in session, unless he has a certificate issued by the superintendent of school. This certificate may allow a child to leave school altogether and be employed regular, this is optional with the superintendent and it depends on the number of years the child has been in school.

There is only two things to remember, don't employ any child under fourteen at all, and no child under 16 who does not secure a certificate. There is on file at the superintendent's office a list of boys who are of age to work, which the merchants desiring boys for messenger work, etc., are at liberty to use.

The factories of this city live up to the law in every respect and the violations which have been found by the State Inspector Robert Mitchell, have been among the retail dealers.

The Philadelphia Ledger says the Roosevelt-Harriman correspondence forms a wonderfully convincing exhibit for a series that "contains little that is new." Mr. Roosevelt declared repeatedly that he had never asked Harriman to raise money for his campaign; that Harriman was busy with the New York state campaign fund; that the money went to Odell of the state committee for the gubernatorial contest. Let any man of ordinary perspicacity read the intimate correspondence, of which the authenticity is not denied, and then render judgment on the facts that have been proved. It is shown, as a matter of fact, Cornelius N. Bliss of the national committee actually did receive Harriman money, and that he signed a receipt in due form; that Mr. Roosevelt was most solicitous for Mr. Harriman's aid; that he sought his counsel and intimacy; that acknowledged with fervor Mr. Harriman's congratulations when elected in 1904; that he flattered Harriman, wheedled him, studied him and sought to win his favor and support in every conceivable way.

The St. Louis Republic remarks that absentee landlordism is another one of Mexico's afflictions. "All the land of Mexico is owned by 7,000 families, many of whom live in Europe." So says Zeferino Dominguez, "corn king" of Mexico, to a reporter for the Republic. In few words Senor Dominguez describes the hard conditions of the peons, the ill-paid tenants of a parasitic landed gentry. Senor Dominguez declares Madero's government is a failure. It doubtless is a failure in as far as it has not rectified or ameliorated the conditions inherited from the Diaz regime. But it was the long Diaz reign, not the struggling Madero effort, that made the conditions which Dominguez himself justly complains of and which he is striving to remedy. Absentee landlordism, all the cruelties of poverty, the stupor of dependence, the unconscious infamy that calls a people peons—all that is the tragic legacy bequeathed by Porfirio Diaz.

The New York Sun says the political intimacy between President Roosevelt and the late Edward H. Harriman during the campaign of 1904 is further illustrated by the letters and dispatches produced Monday afternoon at Washington by the former private secretary of Mr. Harriman. Without adding direct evidence of sensational importance they strengthen the theory of this highly interesting relation that has been generally entertained since the first publication of a letter to Mr. Sidney Webster. Mr. Tegelhoff further testified of his own knowledge that Mr. Harriman in the winter of 1908 informed him of the $250,000 transaction four years earlier and attributed it to conferences between himself and President Roosevelt.

The Boston Post remarks that the University of North Carolina has done the only thing it could do with any sense of its responsibility to the people of the state, and has expelled twenty students who were connected with the hazing of a freshman that resulted in his death. The college has done its duty in the premises. Better than that, however, the hazers have been arrested and are awaiting trial for manslaughter. It is to be hoped that no false ideas of students' prerogatives will enter into the decision of the jury that sits on the case. A conviction with jail sentences would be an object lesson of some influence in the few colleges where hazing is still regarded as fashionable.

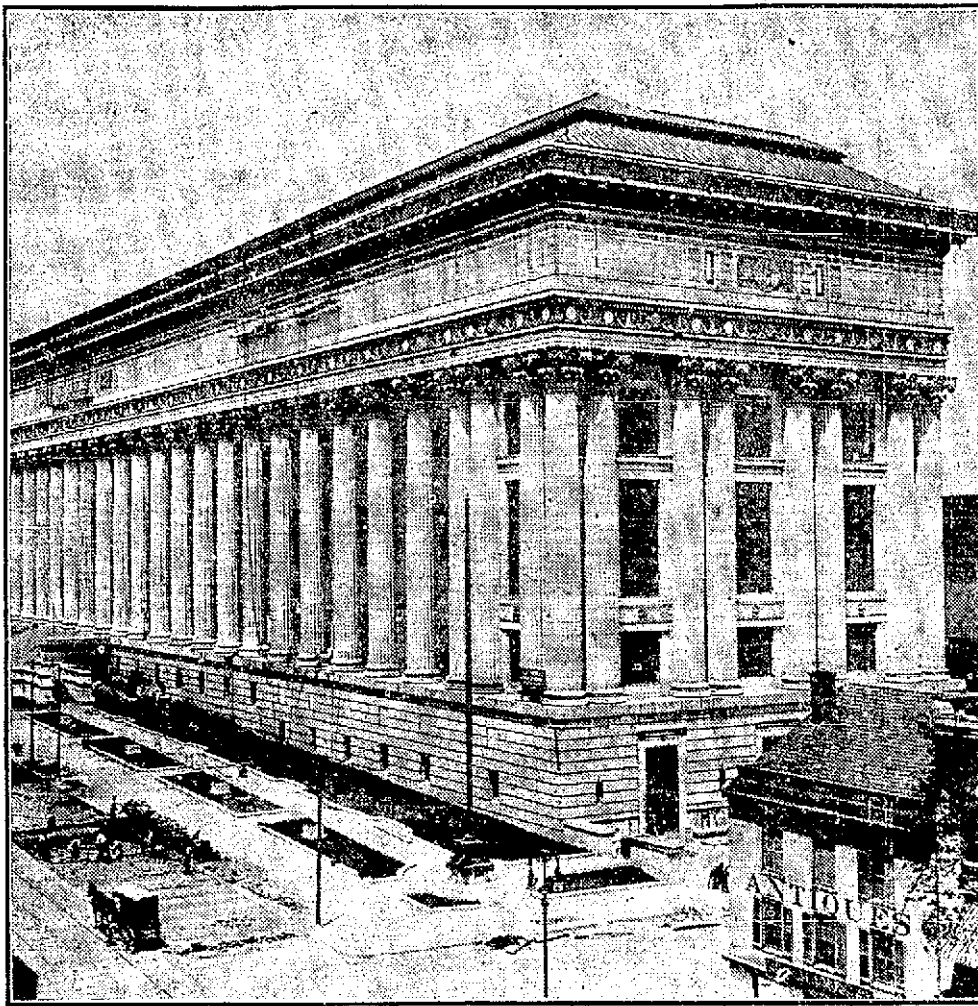

The Detroit News remarks that it is difficult for those who do not belong to the tenant class to realize the extent to which the ban is placed on children by city landlords. Have you any children? Yes? Then you cannot occupy the house. It doesn't matter that you are careful with your children, it doesn't matter that your children are not vicious or thoughtlessly destructive, it doesn't matter that you are a good tenant and careful of your landlord's property—nothing matters; if you have children you can't go in. There is a ban on children. You may have a horse and dogs galore, a brace of babbling phonographs, a screeching parrot and a herd of cats, but you may not have children.

The Kansas City Star remarks that of course a national budget such as President Taft suggests is a highly desirable thing. But you can't get red-headed over a budget as a campaign issue.

The Chicago Record-Herald says to confess that you have not been summoned to testify before the senate committee which is investigating campaign funds is to argue yourself unknown.

The Chicago News strikes a popular note when it says some old-fashioned people love baseball for the game itself, irrespective of pennants.

New York's $4,000,000 Education Building Is the Most Imposing Structure of Its Kind.

The new State Educational building at Albany, N. Y., will be dedicated Oct. 15-17. The building cost $4,000,000 and is the most elaborate building of its kind in the world. It will be housed the state's educational departments and records. A feature of the dedicatory exercises will be an address by Ambassador Whitehead Field, who will return from England for this purpose.

Bird's Eye Views.

It doubtless grieves Mr. Archbold to not instances in which he is obliged to change his form of address to "My dear Ex Senator."

When President Taft and Governor Wilson met one political handshake with no vote getting expectations behind it was recorded.

Had so many fatalities been caused by germs instead of airplanes the condition would have been described as epidemic.

After looking over conditions in Mexico Diaz positively refuses to become homesick.

If this investigating of campaign funds does not stop pretty quick many of the voters will have to earn the money for their Thanksgiving turkeys this year.

They are getting so ructionous in New York state as to expect to hold conventions without asking Mr. Barnes and Mr. Murphy what boys should peddle popcorn among the dealers.

From the persistence with which these Lawrence operatives keep striking; it does not seem that they could be quieted down merely by sending them Christmas post cards.

It is learned that if Roosevelt should be elected President, his early and precipitate method of taking possession of the White House would look like a rough and tumble election.

Another argument in favor of President Taft is that after the present campaign is over a man of his dignified taste may be absolutely relied on not to consider a third term.

"SIMPLY EXPRESSED OPINION."

Such Statement by Fogel About Attack on Umpires.

Philadelphia, Oct. 4.—In a statement issued tonight, Horace S. Fogel, president of the Philadelphia National league baseball club, said, with reference to President Lynch refusing to assign an umpire to the local series between the Phillies and Athletics, next week, that another man would be secured to umpire the games along with Umpire Hart of the American league. "Lynch is not annoying me by such narrow-mindedness," said President Fogel in the statement, "as he evidently forgets that the receipts of the series goes to the players instead of the clubs."

"When Lynch says I have attacked the National league staff of umpires with some awful charges, he doesn't know what he is talking about. I made no charges myself in the article in a Chicago newspaper to which he evidently refers. I simply gave my reasons why there should be a change in the method of selecting umpires for the world series so as to knock in the head an evil—and not a specific wrong—that had sprung up the past year or two and which might result in injury to the sport unless it was checked now. I made no direct charges; simply expressed an opinion."

The Ragpicker Bird.

The trumpeter bird is the ragpicker of the woods and swamps of Guiana, where he is always at work at his trade, with his stomach for a pack and his bill for a book. He performs a useful but most extraordinary service, devouring a perfect multitude of snakes, frogs, scorpions, spiders, lizards, and the like creatures. But this terrible bird can be made perfectly tame. On the Guiana plantations he may be seen fraternizing with the ducks and turkeys, accompanying them in their walks, defending them from their enemies, separating quarrels with the strokes of his bill, sustaining the young and the feeble and waking the echoes with his trumpet while he brings home his flock at night. The trumpeter is as handsome as he is useful. Noble and haughty in aspect, he raises himself up on his long, yellow gaitered legs and seems to say, "I am the trumpeter, the scourge of the reptile, and the protector of the flocks."

The Gladness of Gladys.

In French the tenor sang his role;
The basso was a Swede;
The fair soprano—bless her soul!
To German song was keyed
From Italy the baritone
Had come to join the band.
And in the chorus there were shown
Recruits from every land.
Grave men and serious women too,
Were listening to the shout,
And some confessed they never knew
What it was all about.
But Gladys, with her sixteen years
And confidence sublime
Declared, all free from doubts or fears
She'd had a Lovely Time.

When through the halls of art you stray
Or museums that store
The treasures of a bygone day
From some forgotten shore
You bravely seek to understand
The catalogue who waits at hand
With an attentive eye.
All wearily you soon declare
That life is far too short
For man to give a proper care
To studies of the sort.
It is not so with Gladys dear;
Her laughter's merry chime
The purpose of it all makes clear;
She's had a Lovely Time!—Washington Star.

SUPREME COURT GIVES OPINION

In Favor of Sanford vs Boss and Gray In Dispute Over Passageway

In the action of John Sanford of this city vs. George Boss and Fred A. Gray, the supreme court at its October session has handed down a decision in favor of the plaintiff which is as follows:

Trespass &c. Facts found by the court, Wallace, C. J. Prior to 1905 one Charles Mendum owned on the North side of Daniel street in Portsmouth a lot of land with two buildings thereon with a passageway between them. After Mendum's death, March 31, 1905, his administrator conveyed the westerly portion to the defendant, Boss, by a deed in which the part conveyed was described as follows:

"A certain lot of land with the buildings thereon situated on Daniel street in said Portsmouth, bounded and described as follows:

"Beginning on the north side of Daniel street at land of John J. Pickering estate and others; thence running northerly twenty-four feet; thence easterly three feet, six inches; thence northerly by said Pickering estate eighty-one feet, eight inches; to land of National Mechanics & Traders bank; thence easterly by said bank's land, twenty-one feet and one inch, to other land of said C. H. Mendum estate, thence southerly by land of estate of C. H. Mendum twenty-seven feet eight inches; thence west by said Mendum estate five and seven-tenths feet, thence southerly by said Mendum estate seventy-two feet to Daniel street, thence westerly by Daniel street twenty-seven feet, six inches, to point begun at. Together with the use of a right of way on the easterly side of the lot herein conveyed, as it now exists subject to projections on the buildings in the right of way as shown on plan made by L. E. Scruton, dated March 25, 1905."

By deeds of later date the administrator conveyed the remainder of the premises to the plaintiff. At the time of the conveyance to Boss, and for many years prior thereto, the buildings conveyed had been used as a paint shop and have been since so used. In the passageway on the east side of the building nearest the street there was a ladder rack built of joists, 35 feet long, 2 feet, 10 inches wide and 7 feet high, roofed over. This projection was nailed onto the clapboards of the building. The upright joists making the frame were set into the ground. The rack was open at the ends and sides and for many years has been used to store the ladders which the tenants of the paint shop used in their business. Such use was very convenient for one using the buildings for a paint shop as there is no place for on the premises to store ladders. But the use of the rack is not indispensable nor necessary to the enjoyment of the granted premises. The passageway is used for access to buildings in the rear both of the paint shop and the easterly building on the street. The rack somewhat impedes this use. On the easterly building there are over two doors hoods projecting into the passageway but which do not come down to the ground. These hoods are shown upon the plan referred to in the deed of Boss. There is nothing on the plan indicating the existence of the ladder rack. The land covered by the ladder rack is not within the bounds set forth in the deed to Boss and the court ruled that no title to the land occupied by the ladder rack was conveyed to Boss and that he had no right to have or maintain the rack in the passageway. To this ruling and the verdict for the plaintiff founded thereon, the defendants excepted.

John W. Kelley for the plaintiff.

GAVE HIS ARM TO SAVE HIS CHILD

George Chambers Pulled His Boy Jack From in Front of An Electric Car--Fell and Arm Amputated.

In saving the life of his two-year-old child from an electric car, George Chambers of Kittery lost his right arm and had a very close call from being killed on Friday afternoon.

Chambers is employed as a conductor on the Portsmouth Electric road, but lives in Kittery on the line of the Atlantic Shore Railroad, near what is known as Park Terrace.

Shortly after four o'clock yesterday afternoon Jack, the two-year-old son of Chambers, was playing in front of his home, and while unobserved he wandered out on to the tracks of the electric road. At this point there is a slight down grade curve, and when the four o'clock car out of the ferry in charge of Conductor Murchins and Motorman Staples, came along, Motorman Staples did not see the child directly in the path of the car until he rounded the curve and he at once applied his brakes and did everything possible to stop his car.

As the car came along Mr. Chambers came out of the house and was horrified to see his child directly in front of the car. With a bound he reached the track and grabbing the child threw it from the track just as the car approached. Mr. Chambers had just barely time to throw the child and as he attempted to jump clear himself he slipped and fell and his right arm went under the wheels of the car.

Motorman Staples was making frantic efforts to stop his car, but it had passed over Chambers' arm before brought to a halt on a slippery down hill grade.

Chambers was tenderly lifted from the track and taken into his home. Young Jack somewhat bruised and badly frightened was placed in his mother's arms, practically unharmed and saved through the heroic act of his father.

Dr. Shapleigh was quickly summoned and he caused Mr. Chambers to be removed to the Portsmouth hospital in this city where Dr. J. J. Berry was waiting. The unfortunate man's right arm was practically severed, and it was so horribly mangled that it had to be amputated a few inches below the shoulder. He came out of the operation and while in a dangerous condition he is expected to recover.

No blame is attached to Motorman Staples as he did everything possible to avoid the accident when he saw the little fellow on the track, but it was impossible to check his car in time.

The two-year-old child of G. Chambers strayed upon the rails just as the 4 o'clock car from the ferry approached, and owing to a down grade and sharp curve at this point, the motorman was unable to stop in season. As if by a miracle the child escaped with only severe bruises, but in the attempt at rescue, Mr. Chambers' right arm was so badly mangled that amputation was necessary at the Portsmouth hospital.

GREEKS GOING HOME

HAVERHILL, Oct. 4.—Declaring their willingness to shoulder arms and fight in the army of King George, in the event of a war between Greece and Turkey, which is now imminent, 500 local Greeks have volunteered and are now awaiting the summons of Demosthenes Tansigenis, the Greek consul at Boston.

Last evening the Greeks held a mass meeting in the Orthodox church on Walnut street. The edifice was thronged. Aristides Charanis presided and read a telegram from the Boston consul, the purport of which was that if war was declared, Greece would need the services of her sons who are in this country. There was wild cheering when the message was read and at least 500 local men will leave America and go to Greece when the call to arms is given.

Two Military Companies Here.

There are two military companies of Greeks in this city. Weekly drills have been held for the past three weeks and the men are proficient in marching and military tactics. These men are all willing to return.

Arrangements have practically been made for the transportation of the Greeks in New England to the old country. The steamship Macedonia which was scheduled to sail from New York yesterday, has been detained and will remain in the harbor until further orders. It is understood that a quantity of ammunition and arms is being loaded now. If war is declared the local Greeks will take passage on the ship.

The Franklin Transcript says: A man drove up to a hotel not many miles from Franklin the other day in a high-powered and costly looking automobile with his chauffeur. He stepped to the desk and registered, "John L. Smith and Shoffer," with a southern New Hampshire village as his residence. The name "Smith" is supplied. That comes pretty near being phonetic spelling. A man with money enough to own an automobile ought to have intelligence enough to spell chauffeur properly.

WILL ENLARGE SCOPE OF TRAINING

Washington Oct. 3.—Of far-reaching importance to the navy in general is the formal reopening of the naval academy for the academic term. Recognized as it is as the greatest institution in the world, it became known today that the authorities now have well under way a comprehensive plan for enlarging the scope of training to such an extent that within a few months it will virtually become a "naval university." The plans have as the prime object combining and extending the curriculum to such a degree that every particle of instruction that goes to the making of the competent naval officer will be imparted right here in Annapolis, instead of assigning officers from year to year to take special courses at technological schools in order to become proficient in certain lines of their professional work.

In short the scheme is to make the fundamental part of a midshipman's training paramount during the regular four-year course and the establishment at the academy of post-graduate courses in all the professional branches similar to the school of engineering now here. It is understood that the founding of the engineering school three years ago and he marked success that has been attained thereby furnished the real motive for the proposed extension along other lines. This scheme of readjusting the course in general, it is said, originated with Captain John H. Hobbons, the present superintendent. When he assumed charge a little more than a year ago, Captain Hobbons took the stand that the course both before and after the graduation of students should undergo revision, so the end that middies shall not only be thoroughly drilled in the fundamentals of a naval training but that provision should be made whereby special officers in any branch in which they may desire to specialize.

Captain Hobbons was given hearty support by Navy Department officials, but not until recently had the project begun to crystallize into definite form. Superintendent Hobbons has been working hard on the plans since his return three weeks ago from a summer tour of Europe and has held several conferences with the officials at Washington. Though the classes at the post-graduate school in engineering were resumed today, it is not designed to establish the special courses along other lines until about the close of the first half term in February.

Speaking of the matter, a well-known officer on duty at the academy said that the plans call for starting post-graduate courses in naval construction, ordnance and electrical engineering. Probably seamanship may be added. It was intimated that naval construction is one of the principal branches in which special instruction is most to be desired, and probably the core in that will be the first to get under way. It is well known that for years the government has been spending much money in sending a number of the younger officers each year to technical schools, such as the Massachusetts Institute of Technology at Boston for special instruction in naval construction and other subjects. With the establishment of the post-graduate schools, this course will be abandoned.

The system of conducting the additional post-graduate schools will be practically the same as that applied to the engineering school here, this will mean the assignment of an officer of the rank of commander or lieutenant commander as the superintendent of the school in each branch and fixing the course of instruction for two years.

At certain periods of each year the student officers will be sent on an inspection tour of the government gun factories, such as that at the Washington Navy Yard and the proving grounds at Indian Head Md., where the gun tests are made, and they will visit the various industrial plants or manufacturing in the eastern states. It is stated by the authorities that no selections of officers to preside over these schools have been made, nor have assignments of officers to take the course been worked out, as there is ample time between now and the first of the year to settle these questions.

Willing to Die for Companion.

"If you can save the other fellow do so, because he has a wife and children and I have not, and if one of us must die I would rather perish." This was the remark made the other day by William Dietz to men endeavoring to free him and a companion from tons of dirt and rock that had fallen upon them while they were at work in a ditch at Newport, Ky. Both were submerged when one wall of the ditch in which they were stringing telephone wires gave way. The rescuing party had succeeded in removing the debris so the men could breathe more freely, when Dietz, with the above remark, directed them to save Monroy, who, after being liberated, helped to rescue his fellow workman. Neither of the men were badly injured.

Patents.

Application for a patent must be made in writing to the commissioner of patents at Washington. The applicant must also file in the patent office a written description of the invention or discovery and of the manner and process of making it, in such full, clear, concise and exact terms as to enable those skilled in the arts and sciences to which it appertains, or with which it is most nearly concerned, to construct and use the same. When the nature of the case admits of drawings, the applicant must furnish them of the required size. In all cases which admit of representation by model the applicant, if required by the patent office, must furnish a model for exhibition.

Assassins Worked Boldly.

An aged widow, who kept a small hotel in Paris near St. Lazare prison, was found murdered the other morning in a room taken the day before by two men who have since disappeared. The old woman was strangled by the assassins, when she went into the room to put sheets on the bed. No noise was heard by the other tenants in the hotel. Their crime accomplished, the assassins visited madame's private room and then made good their escape with about $200 in gold and banknotes, a gold watch and a few other articles of jewelry. The body of the woman was found under the mattress, the hands and feet being bound with cords.

Gave Life to Save Dog.

A few months ago a woman who had been given charge of a level crossing at Mehun, in the Cher department, near Paris, France, on her husband's death, and who lived alone in a little house beside the line—was rescued by a stray dog from a tramp who tried to murder her. She took the dog to live with her. One recent evening the woman saw that her dog, which was quite used to trains, was sleeping on the line. She noticed him just as an express train came thundering along, ran to the line, and rescued him, but was herself knocked down by the train and killed.

Nature.

The best definition of Nature is perhaps Mill's in his "Three Essays on Religion." In that most able and interesting work Mill says: "Nature is a collective name for all facts, actual and possible, or a name for the Mode, partly known to us and partly unknown, in which all things take place." Continuing, Mill says: "The nature of a thing means its entire capacity of existing phenomena. As the nature of any given thing is the aggregate of its powers and properties, so Nature, in the abstract, is the aggregate of the powers and properties of all things."

BEECHAM'S PILLS

PLANT BOASTS A LONG NAME

Curious Structure of Green in Front of Treasury Building Attracts Attention.

A curious structure of green stands in the sunken plaza at the north front of the treasury at Washington. What was an old-fashioned fountain trickling a stinging stream has been transmuted by the landscape gardener (or landscape architect, as those gentlemen prefer to be called) into a strange device suggestive of a Christmas decoration. It is the color of emerald, or shamrock, or something equally as green and dear. It grows bountifully upward from the top basin of the fountain and then falls in feathery or plumy masses, veiling all the ironwork of the fountain and hiding the bubbling and dripping water. Of course, it is a marine plant. Thousands of persons passing the treasury have stopped and stared at this green growth, asked many questions.

Enter the treasury, go to the captain of the watch and ask, "What is that?" One of the Civil war veterans on guard there, glittering in a silver shield as big as a dishpan, will probably say:

"You are the ten thousandth man and the twenty thousandth woman to come here with that question. Nobody in the treasury knows what the thing was, so we sent for one of the plant sharps at the National Botanic garden. He told us what the thing was, but still we did not know and could never remember, so we got him to write it out and then we pasted the name in this ledger. If you can read it you may."

The watchman will open an impressive book and you may read this, the name of the plant:

"Myriophyllum Proserpinacoides."

By common persons this strange water plant is sometimes called "parrot feather."

Should you go to Washington, be sure to see this wonderful plant.

ADOPT HOBO SIGN LANGUAGE

House Doorkeeper Invents System to Stop Petty Pan-Handling Around Capitol.

The doorkeepers of the house of representatives have adopted the hobo sign language, and they say it works like a charm. One of the pages invented the system to assist in putting as many crimps as possible into the petty pan-handling that goes on around the capitol.

The other day a flashy looking individual approached the doorkeeper at the main entrance to the floor of the house, slipped out a card and haughtily asked that he be sent in to Representative Sereno Payne, of tariff fame. It was then that one of the tricks of the "Weary Willie" code was worked.

The doorkeeper sized up the visitor or as one of those pestiferous persons who make life a burden to statesmen. He passed the stranger's card to a page, but before doing so he turned down the upper left-hand corner in such a manner that the flashy looking man never noticed it. That turned down corner meant in the slang language, "Nothing doing."

The house page rushed in on the floor at Joe Dawson speed, noted the turned down corner and threw the card into the waste basket. Then he glanced over to the pages' corner, back of the big screen on the Republican side, matched nickels with one of his fellow-pages, and after the lapse of a polite length of time, returned with the information that Congressman Payne was out. The New York member sat nodding at his desk, touching elbows with Uncle Joe Cannon and John Dalzell, oblivious of the fact that he had just been sought.

Uncle Sam's Rat Hunt.

The government is to become a modern competitor of the Pied Piper of Hamelin as an exterminator of rats. But the magic of the Pied Piper's flute is to be displaced by the most improved, modern, double-action steel jawed rat trap that American inventive genius can turn out.

Through Surgeon General Bliss of the public health and marine hospital service, the government has asked for demonstrations of rat traps. The government wants traps to exterminate rodents which carry the bubonic plague from seaport to seaport. The trap which proves most efficacious will be recommended by the government for use in American ports where the plague-carrying rat may be expected.

As a means of promoting its country-wide campaign against the plague the service has issued a circular specifying the proper method of poisoning rats. This has been sent to every American port.

Towel Problem Solved.

Postmaster General Hitchcock has solved the towel problem that confronts other executive departments. When the "laundry trust" of Washington jumped up the prices on towels Mr. Hitchcock installed a plant to launder the postoffice department towels. Local laundries laundered 100 towels for 32 cents last year. This year the price demanded was 75 cents. Up to recently one towel a week was allowed to each of the 1,800 employees of the department. Now each employee is allowed three towels a week. The department towels are washed by a machine owned by the government, and operated by a person paid $580 annually. Last year when the price of ice went too high, Mr. Hitchcock established a small ice factory, and makes his own ice, saving the government several hundred dollars annually.

PORTSMOUTH'S

NEW INDUSTRY

The Roland M. Baker Company Will Soon Manufacture Foot Wear

In a short time the Roland M. Baker Company will begin the manufacture of shoes in this city and Portsmouth will then have another shoe industry in connection with the shoe business which this company has conducted for some time on Hanover street. The Herald man visited the plant on Friday and was greatly impressed at what he found on the second floor of the former big machine shop. Mr. Baker of the firm, though a busy man gave the Herald man a cordial greeting and found time to give the reporter much information concerning the new business.

The firm will begin making shoes on October 15 and will have a capacity for 1000 pair per day. The make will be Misses and Children's "Klay" shoes.

There is promise of good business from the start as the Baker company will have an immediate outlet for its products to the jobbing houses controlled by W. F. McElwain Company who handle the largest shoe business in the country. The rooms being fitted up with the very latest in shoe machinery by the United Shoe Machinery Company of Beverly and each machine will be operated by electric power. The room is one of the best that could be selected for shoe manufacturing and will in every way meet the requirements of the business on the start. The company has option on further space which will increase the capacity to 2000 pairs daily. For the first month or two will move slowly than at a later date will be prepared to push the business to the limit.

Mr. Frank W. Tucker, a former Portsmouth man who has been located several years in the west will be the superintendent. He has given many years in shoes making and will be a valuable man for the firm. The following will have charge of the several departments. Cutting, Fred Wentworth, stock fitting, Frank Pike, stitching room, Miss Johnson finishing and packing, William Micott.

The superintendent is now prepared to engage help for the different branches of the work. The business of the company should steadily advance from the fact that its leather products are right at hand and are second to none of the same class in this country. The Baker company in the short time that it has been located in this city has done much for Portsmouth and the officials of the company are going as far as possible in their interest for this place. They believe that Portsmouth should be one of the important New England cities and they informed the Herald man on Friday that they are going to do everything they can to make good this statement.
